

About the Authors

Anuj Gupta (anujgupta@arizona.edu) is a PhD candidate and a Data Science and Digital Scholarship Fellow at the University of Arizona. His research and teaching agenda focuses on computers and composition, digital rhetoric, and human-computer interaction. He is currently working on his dissertation research where he is analysing the impact of AI technologies like large language model chatbots (LLM) on literacy, rhetoric, and human-computer interaction. Anuj recently won the Kairos Graduate Research Award, the CCCC Scholars for the Dream Award, and the GPSC Outstanding Research Award. His research appears in journals like Composition Studies, ALRA, and the journal for the CWPA.

Dilara Avci (dilaraavci@arizona.edu) is a doctoral student in the Second Language Acquisition & Teaching program at the University of Arizona. She completed her Master's Degree in Teaching English as a Second Language program at the University of Arizona in 2023. She has taught English across diverse backgrounds and age levels including K-12 and college-level English Composition. Her research interests are second language writing and material design with the application of innovative approaches such as genre pedagogy and corpus linguistics.

Hanyu Jia (hanyujia@arizona.edu) is a Ph.D. candidate in Second Language Acquisition and Teaching at the University of Arizona. Her research interests include language teaching and technology and pragmatics, with a focus on the affordances and effectiveness of virtual reality environments for the teaching of interlanguage pragmatics.