

ARIZONA LAW REVIEW

VOLUME 18

1976

NUMBER 4

CONTENTS

Article	Page
MENS REA, THE FIRST AMENDMENT, AND THREATS AGAINST THE LIFE OF THE PRESIDENT .....	Joel Jay Finer 863

18 U.S.C. § 871 makes it a crime to knowingly and wilfully threaten the President. As the statute punishes speech as well as behavior, a conflict arises between the protections of the First Amendment and the legitimate goals of Section 871. The author proposes a mens rea standard for this section which fulfills the purposes of the statute, while protecting free expression.

Commentary

PRIVACY AND PUBLIC FUNDING: Maier v. Roe AS THE INTERACTION OF Roe v. Wade AND Dandridge v. Williams .....	David T. Hardy 903
--	--------------------

The author examines the question of government subsidization of abortions. The principles of due process and equal protection are explored to determine if funding is constitutionally mandated. By taking account of the fiscal limitations of the state and the controversial nature of the question, a recommendation against state funding is offered.

Notes

RESTITUTION: A SOLUTION TO Illinois Brick Co. v. Illinois AND TO THE MANAGEABILITY PROBLEMS OF ANTITRUST AND OTHER CONSUMER CLASS ACTIONS .....	D. Michael Mandig 940
--	-----------------------

There are currently several formidable substantive and procedural difficulties facing consumer class actions. These problems arise primarily because the actions seek recovery of money damages for large groups of individually powerless consumers. This Note offers restitution as an alternative to damages in class actions, and analyzes the substantive and procedural ramifications of the suggested remedy under the federal antitrust laws.

NUCLEAR POWER REGULATION: DEFINING THE SCOPE OF STATE AUTHORITY .....Charles A. Bischoff 987

State attempts to regulate the utilization of nuclear power raise potential conflicts with existing federal legislation. Based on an examination of the federal interest underlying atomic energy legislation, the author sets out a scope of permissible state regulation which is broader than that generally acknowledged.

PROCEDURAL DUE PROCESS IN PAROLE
RELEASE DECISIONS ..... John C. Rea 1023

Procedural due process has been applied with increasing frequency to protect the rights of parolees. The author examines this constitutional right in the context of parole release decisions and concludes that it should be extended to protect the prisoner.

PSYCHOTHERAPISTS' LIABILITY FOR EXTRAJUDICIAL BREACHES OF
CONFIDENTIALITY .....Charles L. Eger 1061

A psychotherapist's breach of his patient's confidentiality detracts from the trusting relationship required for successful psychotherapy. The author explores several theories of recovery against a psychotherapist who breaches his confidentiality so that such conduct may be deterred and the patient compensated for his loss.

LEGAL ISSUES IN THE USE OF
GUARDIANSHIP PROCEDURES TO REMOVE
MEMBERS OF CULTS .....Gretta Spendlove 1095

Controversy surrounding the growth of fringe religious groups during the seventies gives rise to this consideration of the various legal means utilized to inhibit religious cult expansion. Detailed analysis is given to the constitutionality of guardianship proceedings used to isolate and deprogram cult members. A proffered suggestion seeks to resolve the conflict between individual rights of the cultists and state interests.

Book Review

SCHLEI & GROSSMAN: EMPLOYMENT
DISCRIMINATION LAW ..... Lawrence Allen Katz 1140
INDEX—VOLUME 18 ..... 1147