LAND-USE PLANNING BY PRIVATE VOLITION: A FRAMEWORK FOR POLICY-ORIENTED INQUIRY Luther L. McDougal, III	1
Land-use planning by private volition involves individuals and associations who either by agreement or unilateral action develop policies concerning the use and enjoyment of land. The author proposes a "policy-oriented" inquiry as a framework for examining such private land-use planning.
THE IMPLICATION OF Lehnhausen v. Lake Shore Auto Parts Co. : WEAKENING OR ELIMINATING EQUAL PROTECTION FOR CORPORATIONS AS A CLASS Rodney J. Blackman	41
This article focuses on the status of corporations with respect to the equal protection clause following the Supreme Court's decision in Lehnhausen . After discussing the case the author concludes that corporations will not be afforded equal protection against discriminatory treatment in tax classification and other business related fields.
Commentary
FROM WATERGATE TO Marbury v. Madison : SOME REFLECTIONS ON PRESIDENTIAL PRIVILEGE IN CURRENT HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES Nathaniel L. Nathanson	59
The author explores the concept of presidential privilege. He examines first the case of Nixon v. Sirica and then the long run implications the privilege doctrine holds for the presidency.
Notes
LANDLORD-TENANT REFORM: ARIZONA'S VERSION OF THE UNIFORM ACT Larry D. Clark and Daniel P. Hutchinson	79
The writers provide a thorough review of the Arizona Residential Landlord and Tenant Act . Particular emphasis is placed on significant changes in Arizona law brought about by the Act and the modifications made to the Uniform Act which served as the basis for the new law.

THE JUSTICIABILITY OF CONFRONTATION: EXECUTIVE SECRECY AND
THE POLITICAL QUESTION DOCTRINE Alan B. Sternstein 140

In a time of constitutional crisis, the roles of the three branches of the federal government become acutely significant. The proper definition of each of those roles is explored with particular regard to the political question doctrine and the right of the President to withhold information from Congress.

ARIZONA'S NEW RULES OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE: A PROVING GROUND FOR THE SPEEDY ADMINISTRATION
OF JUSTICE Timothy J. Berg and John Patrick Lyons 167

The goals of the new Arizona Rules of Criminal Procedure are examined and a preliminary evaluation is made of the extent to which these goals have been achieved. Close scrutiny is made of the procedures set up by the new rules for pretrial release of the accused, discovery, plea bargaining, and procedures for probation revocation.

ARIZONA CONSTITUTIONAL LAW DERAILED IN FEDERAL DIVERSITY COURT: A REEVALUATION OF
Herron v. Southern Pacific Co. David A. Paige 208

More than 40 years have passed since the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that Arizona's constitutional provision relating to contributory negligence was not controlling in a federal diversity court. The writer examines the strong state policy reflected by the provision, reviews the Erie decision and its progeny, and concludes that Arizona's constitutional provision should now be honored in federal court.
