

About the Authors

Rong Liu (mikeliu@email.arizona.edu) is an Associate Professor of English at Georgia Gwinnet College. He has more than 20 years of experience in ESL/EFL/TESOL both in the USA and overseas. His research interests focus on language processing and using technology in second language reading and writing.

Hyeonah Kang (hyeonahkang@arizona.edu) is a PhD candidate in Second Language Acquisition and Teaching at the University of Arizona. Her research interests lie at the intersection of cognitive psychology and second language acquisition, with a particular focus on the effectiveness of pedagogic interventions on second language vocabulary acquisition.

Fatima Alsalloom (faalsalluom@imamu.edu.sa) is an assistant professor of applied linguistics in the Department of English Language and Literature at Al-Imam Muhammad Ibn Saud Islamic University in Riyadh. Her research interests include, pragmatic competence development and assessment, intercultural communication, and technology in language teaching and learning.

Ali Yaylali (ali.yaylali@eku.edu) is an assistant professor in the Teaching, Learning, and Educational Leadership Department at Eastern Kentucky University. He is a former English as a second language and Turkish as a foreign language teacher in public schools. His research focuses on educational discourses in the media and classrooms, English learners' science writing development, pre-service teachers' transformative learning experience, and mentoring in graduate schools. He currently teaches courses related to ESL endorsement, English language arts methods, and disciplinary and digital literacies, and reading at the undergraduate and graduate level.