29th ISL World Congress of Lymphology will take place – in person – in the beautiful city of Genoa, an ancient Italian Maritime Republic.

Chairmen of the event, promoted by ISL International Society of Lymphology, are professors Corrado and Corradino Campisi, respectively President and Honorary President. The Congress aim is to bring together the international lymphology community: scientists, physicians, surgeons, therapists, researchers, industry and healthcare providers will share the most updated news on a subject that is getting more and more attention. A special section will be dedicated to patients.

The Congress will take place in the prestigious congress venue of “Magazzini del Cotone”, located in one of the historic piers of the Port of Genoa.
